

Ecologist Film Workshops and Presentation

This project is going to contain “a cinema workshop” and five-day presentations between July 15 and October 15. The films in the project are going to handle with an environmental problem “the effects of geothermal power plants” (GPP) in Aydin province, especially Efeler county.

After inviting film makers from five different countries and by the end of the workshops, as it is targeted, the effects of the GPPs are going to be told via cinematic language.

During the project and film making progress, the foreigner film makers will be accompanied by Turkish assistants. By this way, the foreigner film makers will comprehend the problem and the Turkish assistances will have experiences about working with foreigners.

June: There will be connections with the foreign film makers then, choosing the fitting ones and fulfilling their official formalities (permission, visa).

July: There will be one week workshop in Aydin with the chosen students. And the film makers are going to be with ecologist organizations, therefore, be informed about the GPP problem. They will have conversation with the native people who have been directly influenced by the GPP. In addition, the experts will give a seminar about the relation between the environmental problems and cinema, and moreover, some movies from the world cinema will be displayed about the subject. After those activities, some ideas about contents and quality of scenarios will be given to the film makers.

August - September: After workshops and returning to their countries, foreign (and Turkish) participants will have conversations on the internet and progress of writing scenarios are to be completed. In order to make the scripts in expected quality, there will be professional support.

October: In the beginning of October the groups are going to be called and given them camera + cameraman and a sound operator. By the experienced technicians, qualities of projects will be kept high. While that process, places for filming and decors etc. will be provided. (There will be no an unexpected situation because of knowing requirements of scenarios previously).

After completing their filming process, the groups are going to have editing equipments and editors to complete their projects. The workshop equip is going to join in all processes.

In the second half of the October, "Ecologist Film Week" is going to get started; five- film presentations per day are going to be held. Two of five films will be about GPP problem.

Panel discussions and conversations are to be held at the end of the weekend by participated professional film makers. A concert and attendant politicians can enliven the activities.

There will be accounts during the project (5 months) on social media (Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, Youtube) and those accounts will be moderated by the workshop equip.

With respect
